

Character Profiles

Core Ensemble

Chen Wei (陈伟) – The Nationalist

Age: 42 Location: Beijing Identity Position: Rigid nationalist, strong Chinese identity Background: – Senior researcher at Chinese Academy of Social Sciences – Specializes in cross-strait relations and national reunification theory – Grew up during Reform and Opening, witnessed China's rise – Father was a PLA officer, instilled patriotic values

Core Belief: Taiwan is an inseparable part of China; reunification is historical inevitability and moral imperative

Character Function: Represents the mainland perspective viewing Taiwan through nationalist lens, embodies conviction that identity and territory are sacred and immutable

Arc Direction: Will face crisis when confronted with evidence that “Chineseness” itself is historically constructed and malleable

---

Lin Xiaowen (林晓文) – The Ambiguous

Age: 28 Location: Taipei Identity Position: Navigating identity ambiguity, generational shift Background: – Software engineer at Taiwanese tech startup – Grandparents fled mainland in 1949, parents identify as Taiwanese – Educated in English, consumes global media, less invested in historical grievances – Finds identity politics exhausting but cannot escape them

Core Belief: Identity is contextual and pragmatic; wants to live without historical burdens but increasingly forced to choose sides

Character Function: Represents younger Taiwanese generation experiencing identity as imposed choice rather than natural fact

Arc Direction: Will be forced into active identity declaration due to escalating geopolitical crisis, discovering that neutrality is not an option

---

Sarah Huang (黃雅琪) – The Fragmented

Age: 35 Location: San Francisco (American-born Chinese, Taiwanese heritage) Identity Position: Post-national cosmopolitan with diaspora fragmentation Background: – Tech product manager, parents immigrated from

Taiwan in 1980s – Grew up navigating multiple identity contexts (American at school, Chinese at home, Taiwanese via family history) – Experiences identity as performance and code-switching – Recently confronting questions about belonging due to rising US-China tensions

Core Belief: Identity is software that can be installed, uninstalled, run in multiple instances simultaneously

Character Function: Embodies diaspora experience of identity as plural, optional, and contextual; demonstrates that identity fragmentation is not pathology but adaptation

Arc Direction: Will discover that radical identity fluidity creates its own alienation; must find coherence without collapsing into singular identity

---

Dr. Evelyn Zhang (张逸云) – The Observer Proxy

Age: 58 Location: Various (academic conferences, research sites) Identity Position: Meta-observer, disciplinary detachment Background: – Astrophysicist and complexity theorist – Researches large-scale systems, evolutionary dynamics, entropy – Lost family members in historical upheavals, developed philosophical distance as coping mechanism – Increasingly treats human conflicts as data sets

Core Belief: All human meaning-making is temporary pattern recognition in ultimately meaningless thermodynamic processes

Character Function: Provides in-world voice approximating the Observer perspective; allows philosophical ideas to be dramatized through character rather than pure narration

Arc Direction: Will face challenge to her detachment when personal stakes become undeniable during crisis; must reconcile cosmic indifference with human care

---

Supporting Characters

General Tang (唐将军)

- PLA officer responsible for Taiwan contingency planning
- Pragmatic, not ideological, sees reunification as strategic necessity
- Represents institutional momentum toward conflict

Minister Wu (吴部长)

- Taiwanese defense minister
- Former academic turned politician, understands futility but must prepare for war
- Represents burden of sovereignty maintenance

Kevin Chen

- Lin Xiaowen's childhood friend who moved to Shanghai for work
- Embodies economic integration creating cross-strait personal ties
- His choices illuminate how individual relationships exist within larger system forces

Professor Liu

- Elderly historian, lived through multiple regime changes
- Provides living memory of "Chinese identity" as historical construction
- Represents witness to identity's mutability across single lifetime

Character Relationship Map

Identity Spectrum Positioning

